Projects for ARTD

Since joining ARTD, Consuelo has been involved in stakeholder engagement, literature reviews, evaluation design and the development of research and evaluation tools on projects, such as

- development of a data collection and reporting system for Families NSW to report against performance measures for five service activities— Supported Playgroups, Family Worker, Parenting Programs, Partnerships and Networks and Community Capacity Building (Community Services, NSW Department of Human Services)
- process evaluation of the pilot of the new registration system of Aboriginal community housing providers (NSW Aboriginal Housing Office)
- evaluation of the Self-Managed Model (SMM) of support for young people with disabilities, using surveys and interviews with families and young people with disabilities, service providers and managers (Ageing, Disability and Home Care, NSW Department of Human Services).

Previous evaluation experience

Consuelo worked in project management in the field of international development from 2008 to 2010. In a project coordinator role with major responsibility for monitoring and evaluation, Consuelo and her team managed 24 projects for poverty reduction through South East Asia and the Pacific. Tasks included

- development of project monitoring and evaluation frameworks
- development and review of program logics
- review of evaluation reports
- creation of data collection tools
- development of reporting tools (participatory, mixed-methods reporting for project staff).
