

Solina gained an interest in social policy issues whilst undertaking her Social Work degree. She is able to apply her social work skills and theoretical background to social policy and program evaluation. She uses her university experience in writing literature reviews and undertaking an honours research thesis to inform her work. Solina is also a skilled creator of infographics that provide a compelling way to present evaluation findings.

I am passionate about the pursuit of social justice and equality through social policy and program evaluation. I believe in working alongside communities to ensure culturally responsive, inclusive and informed practice.
