

Jenevieve Liem | Analyst

Jenevieve joined ARTD in January 2026 after completing her Bachelor of Science at the University of Sydney, majoring in Health, Management and Leadership. She is currently completing her Honours in Health Policy, where she is strengthening her research skills and understanding of the health sector.

Jenevieve is passionate about applying her qualitative analysis skills to evaluations that help governments shape effective policies and positively impact people's lives. As an effective communicator, she seeks to understand different client perspectives and works collaboratively to support meaningful change.

I am passionate about driving positive change in the health sector by actively listening to those impacted by policies and programs and providing evaluations that support ongoing improvement for the future.
